<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Two to five years
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Five to 10 years
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	More than 10 years

4. What is your return objective?

- I do not have a high return objective. I am willing to accept lower long-term returns in order to preserve capital in bad market environments.
- When stocks are performing well, I want some participation, but I am also somewhat concerned with short-term risk.
- I am looking for high long-term returns, and I am only mildly concerned with short-term risk.
- I am looking for high long-term returns, and I am not concerned with short-term risk.
- I am looking for maximum returns, and I am not concerned with short-term risk or being out of sync with equity markets.

5. What is your risk tolerance? It is important to understand that the less short-term risk you are willing to take on, the lower your long-term returns are likely to be.

- I consider myself conservative – Investor is seeking to preserve principal in their account with minimal risk. These investors are willing to accept lower income or returns, and their account may not keep pace with inflation.

- I consider myself to be moderate-conservative – Investor is willing to accept low risk to their initial principal, including low volatility, to seek a modest level of portfolio returns.

- I consider myself to be moderate – Investor is willing to accept some risk to their initial principal and tolerate some volatility to seek higher returns. These investors understand money invested could be lost due to market fluctuation.

- I consider myself to be moderate-aggressive – Investor is willing to accept significant risk to their initial principal, including high volatility, to seek higher returns over long-term investing. These investors may endure large losses in favor of potentially higher long-term returns.

- I consider myself to be aggressive – Investor is willing to accept maximum risk to their initial principal to aggressively seek maximum returns. These investors understand that most, or all, of the money invested potentially could be lost.

6. The level of risk you are comfortable with is an important part of the development of your personal investment policy. Usually, to achieve a higher return, you must also increase your potential risk. Below are the hypothetical one-year results of two different scenarios for a $100,000 hypothetical investment. These numbers are provided for illustrative purposes only and do not represent a projection of the performance of any account.

Expected	Worse Case Scenario
$107,000	$90,000	Income/ Low Risk
$109,000	$85,000	Conservative
$112,000	$80,000	Moderate
$115,000	$75,000	Growth

7. Given your psychological tolerance toward unrealized losses and your financial ability to afford them, which portfolio would you choose?

Retirement	Non-Retirement
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Income/ Low Risk
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Conservative
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Moderate
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Growth

8. What would you do if one of your investments declined by more than 10%?

<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Hold, but avoid further purchases
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Hold, and continue to add new money over time
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Buy more immediately

9. Once withdrawals begin for this investment portfolio, how long should they last?

Retirement	Non-Retirement
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Lump sum withdrawal
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Less than one year
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	One to five years
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Six to 10 years
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	11 or more years

10. Which of the following best describes your attitude toward taxes and return?

- I prefer to incur as little taxes as possible and am willing to potentially sacrifice some after-tax returns to do so.

- I prefer to maximize my after-tax returns. If I incur taxes doing so, it is not a big concern.

- I prefer to strike a balance between earning potentially higher after-tax returns and some focus on minimizing taxes.

11. This may be appropriate if your account is taxable and your gross income falls in a high tax bracket. Non-Retirement Plan Accounts are generally taxable. IRAs and other Retirement Accounts are tax-deferred or potentially tax-free, as with a Roth IRA, and therefore do not require tax management. Are you interested in:

- Standard (corporate and government bonds)

- Tax-sensitive (municipal bonds used in bond portfolios)

- Tax-managed (municipal bonds used and tax efficiencies used to minimize short- and long-term capital gains)

- Yes. I have other assets that I could use to cover my immediate cash flow needs, but some advanced planning would be necessary.
- Yes. I have other assets that I could use to cover my immediate cash flow needs.

14. How would you balance the importance of maximum possible exposure to gain with the increased exposure to market loss?

- I am risk averse and give more weight to prevention of loss than to gain.
- I am risk neutral and would give equal importance to gain and prevention of loss.
- I am less concerned with risk than with gain and would give approximately 60% importance to gain while giving 40% importance to prevention of loss.
- I am only slightly concerned with risk and would give 75% importance to gain and 25% importance to prevention of loss.
- I am unconcerned with risk and would give 100% importance to gain and 0% importance to prevention of loss.

This information sets the framework for us to recommend appropriate investment strategists and money managers.

- Annual expenses which might include mortgage payments, rent, long-term debts, utilities, alimony or child support payments, etc.
